Molotov Told His Proposal Unacceptable

By Daniel DeLuce

Berlin (AP) — The Western powers blamed Soviet Russia's imperialistic ambition yesterday for failure of the Berlin conference thus far to restore Germany's unity.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov was accused here of seeking to extend Kremlin rule to the Rhine and strip Western Europe of its defenses.

In sharp speeches America's John Foster Dulles, France's Georges Bidault and Britain's Anthony Eden told Molotov his German unification plan was totally unacceptable. The West regarded it as a scheme to rig a Communist satellite state in all of Germany.

All three Western foreign ministers appealed to Molotov not to let his plan be his "final" answer, but instead help to end the cold war.

He refused to budge from his fundamental conditions for an all-German election under Communist political and military influence which he had submitted Thursday.

However, he suggested one procedural modification. The Big Four, he said, might agree with a Red-backed provisional all-German government as to a time limit in which it would be bound to hold an election without foreign supervision. The Kremlin plan had not fixed such a date.

The foreign ministers will hold their 12th regular session today in the Soviet Embassy's Hall of Mirrors with the German question still up for debate. Then they go into a secret session Monday at the Allied Control Authority Building in the American sector.

Under the cloak of official silence, they will discuss Molotov's rejected proposals for a Big Five conference with Red China present, and a world disarmament conference with non-members of the United Nations participating.

The rival resolution of French Foreign Minister Bidault for a U.N. disarmament conference will also be taken up.

Only the three diplomats and their interpreters will be present to represent each power in the hush-hush meeting.

If nothing else, it may decide whether the Big Four will further the German issue without further squabbling and go on to the question of Austria's treaty of independence, delayed for nine years.

Area Democrats 'Favor' Dilworth For Governor

Philadelphia District Attorney Richardson Dilworth emerged last night as the "favored" candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination at a meeting of party leaders from the 10th, 11th and 15th districts in Scranton.

At a regional meeting in Hotel Casey, county and district Democratic party leaders were "overwhelmingly in favor of Dilworth", according to John Brislin, Monroe County Democratic chairman.

The regional meeting does not make an official selection of a candidate, however, nor does it go on record as endorsing a candidate.

These actions must be left up to meetings representing wider areas during the next few weeks.

According to Brislin "200 persons from all three districts" attended the meeting.

Following an overall discussion of the current political picture, Brislin said, the meeting broke up into senatorial and congressional groups to discuss the outlook for the forthcoming elections.

Attending from Monroe County were Brislin, county chairman; Floyd Butz, county register and recorder; Granville Shiffer, the only Democratic Monroe County commissioner; Willetta Rogalski, secretary-treasurer of the Monroe County Democratic Committee; Jacob Altomero, county sheriff; Forrest Smith, State committeeman, and Van D. Yetter, announced candidate for the assembly.

Monroe, Northampton and Carbon make up the 15th District. Other counties represented were Pike, Wayne, Lackawanna, Susquehanna, Wyoming, Sullivan and Luzerne.

The candidacy of Rep. Francis E. Walter for the U. S. Congressional seat he now holds from this district was "taken for granted", Brislin said. No other possible candidate was mentioned during any of the three-county meetings, he indicated.

Walter's GOP opponent this year will be Chauncey D. Howell, an Easton lawyer. Howell was endorsed this week by district Republican leaders.

In attendance at last night's meeting were State officials Maurice Splain, State Democratic chairman, and Genevieve Blatt, secretary of the State committee.

Dilworth, who was the party's nominee for the governor post four years ago, has not yet said he will run for the post this year.

Other candidates are being "talked up" as the opening day for circulating nominating petitions (Feb. 23) approaches.

Additional meetings of party leaders in other sections are slated for this week and next.

HST Brands Commie Hunt 'Big Hoax'

By Arthur Everett

New York (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman last night ridiculed the Republican search for Communists in government as "one of the biggest hoaxes ever attempted in American history."

He told a dinner meeting of Americans for Democratic Action that any Reds left behind when he quit the White House more than a year ago "were few and far between."

"The Republicans know, and know full well," Truman said, "that they found an employee loyalty program that had cleaned Communists out of the government effectively and efficiently before the subject was ever made a political issue."

Regarding the Eisenhower administration's public claim that 2,200 security risks are no longer with the government, Truman declared:

"I believe the President owes a duty to the American people—and especially to all the government employees whose good names are involved—to tell us just how many Communists and other actual subversives he has found."

"If he does not do this, he will leave our government service and many loyal Americans under a cloud of grave suspicion."

At one point, Truman emphasized:

"This is the Republican administration I am talking about, not irresponsible members of Congress."

The administration has conceded that not all the 2,200 were disloyal, nor were they all fired. Some were classed as security risks because of their personal habits. Some left government voluntarily without even knowing they were classified as risks.

President Eisenhower has said he is planning to clarify the matter, perhaps sometime this month. But he has expressed doubt any total breakdown can be provided.

Truman's speech was in the typical "give 'em hell" style of his campaign oratory. He heaped tart criticism on the Eisenhower administration, at the same time defending his own record.

Truman needed the Eisenhower administration for its lack of "moral workers."

"Along with my fellow Americans," he declared, "I have been watching and waiting for those miracles to happen that we were promised back in 1932. But there is something wrong somewhere. There seems to be a slight delay in the miracle business."

He accused the GOP administration of backtracking on two "major blunders." Truman said they were a slash in the Air Force program, and the hard money plan of managing the national debt.

The ex-President claimed the GOP adopted many of his own proposals on social security, "and perhaps even touched them up a little."

And he lambasted what he called the "almost callous indifference" of the Republicans toward the economic needs of the farmer.

If there is no real recession, Truman asked, why are we "not prosperous enough and sure enough of the future to increase the minimum wage?"

Truman attacked the GOP tax relief proposals as "a rich man's tax relief measure if I ever heard of one."

Pope Pius XII

Pope's Condition Weakens; Being Fed Intravenously; Two Specialists Summoned

Vatican City (AP) — Two specialists were summoned yesterday to the bedside of Pope Pius XII. His condition was officially described as growing steadily weaker through inability to take food. It has been necessary to feed the Pope intravenously.

His strength sapped also by age and prolonged mental and physical work, the pale and wan Pope remained in his simple wooden bed in the apostolic palace.

Anxiety mounted for the 77-year-old spiritual leader of 400 million Roman Catholics. Worried inquiries poured into the Vatican from many lands. In Italy, four million members of the Catholic Action were asked to pray for his recovery. Prayers were said also in other lands.

The two specialists summoned were Dr. Paul Niehans, a Swiss specialist in endocrinology and urology, and Dr. Cesare Frugoni, a celebrated Italian general practitioner.

Endocrinology is a study of the internal secretions of the endocrine glands, such as the adrenals, the thyroid and pituitary, whose secretions pass directly into the blood stream.

On Jan. 26 — 11 days ago — the Vatican disclosed the Pope was suffering from a gastric disturbance which caused occasional hiccups. For the past three days, the hiccups have been gone.

The medical staff attending the pontiff hopes that his strength will permit new X-rays of the gastric area and nearby organs. Earlier X-rays had disclosed nothing abnormal, quieting fears that the Pope might be suffering from cancer. Vatican sources said additional X-rays have been impossible because the Pope has been unable to retain fluids in his stomach.

The boy, whose name has been changed to William Anthony Burton, fell heir to the fortune as beneficiary of a trust fund set up for Mrs. Housman by her late husband Max Bernheimer, a brewer.

The body of Longergan's wife, the former Patricia Burton, was found lying nude in bed in her Beekman Place triplex apartment Oct. 23, 1943.

Police learned later that Longergan, then a Royal Canadian Air Force cadet, had been in New York that weekend. He was arrested in Toronto and confessed the slaying after being brought back to New York.

Differs With Critics On Depression

By Douglas B. Cornell

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower last night struck out at "prophets of gloom" who predict the United States is headed for serious recession or a depression.

The President told a rally of thousands of thundering Republicans that "we don't have to listen" to people "who say we are going into this or that kind of stumble or fall."

America, he declared, is going to "grow stronger and better, spiritually, intellectually, economically and militarily."

Even as the President spoke, his predecessor, Harry S. Truman, was telling a New York audience that the nation is in a recession. Speaking to Americans for Democratic Action, Truman said: "The recession that started on the farms last spring has already spread to the city streets—and a depression would do likewise."

Eisenhower spoke to a whooping crowd of 7,000—Cabinet members and Congress members among them—at a traditional Lincoln Day box supper.

He promised, as he had done at a recent news conference, that his administration will be "liberal and human" toward people and "conservative" with the people's money.

"And don't be afraid to use the word," he said, referring to the word "conservative."

In what could have been an allusion to the battle over the Bricker amendment to curb presidential treaty-making power, Eisenhower declared that "we must make certain that the genius of the Constitution and our government shall not perish" but "go on in the same general form it has been received by us."

"The reason I believe in the Republican party," Eisenhower said, "is because it is the best political instrument to serve the United States in this kind of a day."

His party, he said, must make certain that every individual American has "an opportunity to make of himself what he can," with the government as a "sympathetic partner, a big brother."

In his 12-minute, off-the-cuff speech, Eisenhower renewed a pledge of an ultimately balanced budget. He said the economy of the nation must be solvent and yet concerned with every American's health and that the government must have the power to see that everything that takes place will enrich the people's lives.

In warm-up speeches before the President's talk, other Republicans called on the party leaders to unite behind the Eisenhower program, against "left wingers" and the "far left," and march to victory in the crucial 1954 congressional election.

Vice President Nixon said the administration is trying to "prove to America and the world that it is possible in the United States—under our individual enterprise system—to have peace and prosperity at the same time."

"Previous administrations for 20 years have never been able to do that," he said.

"If we are unable, with the kind of people and leadership we have, to meet this great objective, the alternative will be a swing to an extreme—the far left and the opposition party undoubtedly will come into power."

Nixon, who recently returned from a global fact-finding tour, said the administration's principal international objective is to "bring peace without defeat and without surrender of the basic principles in which we believe."

He called President Eisenhower "the best known salesman" to lead the free world in the conflict between freedom and totalitarianism.

In an earlier speech, Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall accused "left wingers" of recklessly "spreading gloom and doom across the land" in an effort to ride a depression back into political power.

But he said Democrats no longer are so confident of winning the late congressional elections in November now that Eisenhower has laid his program before Congress. Hall said the program has inspired hope in all Americans and in free peoples everywhere.

Thieves Kill Dog Before Looting Diner Of Steaks, Women's Hose, Electric Shaver

Thieves broke into Darr's Diner near Snyder'sville on Route 209 early yesterday morning, killed a watchdog and stole a list of articles including T-bone steaks; halibut fillet, women's hose, veal cutlets and a three-headed electric shaver.

Stroudsburg State police were notified of the burglary at 6 a. m. by John Darr, owner of the diner.

Nine Convicts Flee Prison By Way Of Tunnel

Atmore, Ala. (AP) — Nine desperate convicts who tunneled out of Atmore State Prison Farm's "Little Alcatraz" eluded a heavily armed posse in this south Alabama country yesterday.

Some of the group, who apparently made a getaway in a 10-ton oil drilling truck, were believed hiding in woods west of here or hitchhiking toward Mobile, about 55 miles to the southwest.

The hunt by Alabama highway patrolmen and prison guards fanned out across a 30-mile wide stretch of timberlands from Perdido to Spanish Fort community, on a bluff overlooking Mobile Bay. Bloodhounds and an airplane aided in the search.

Warden S. W. Hixon said there was a possibility some of the escapees were in a late-model car driven by a wife of one of the convicts. He said the wife made a visit to the prison Thursday. A pickup order was sent out on a car she was believed driving.

The drilling truck, which had been parked on prison grounds Thursday by an oil company, was found out of gas near Perdido.

Postal Bill Clears House Committee

Washington (AP) — An administration-backed bill raising all major postal rates cleared the House Post Office Committee yesterday but Republican critics continued to predict it never will reach the White House.

As it went to the House floor, the measure would:

One—Increase out-of-town first class letter rates from three to four cents.

Two—Up the rate for air mail letters from six to seven cents an ounce.

Three—Extend the annual 10 per cent rise in second class mail rates from 1955 until 1958. This would mean a 60 per cent cumulative increase in a six-year period which started in 1952. Newspapers and magazines are chief users of second class mail.

Four—Raise some third class business mail rates to bring in about 50 million dollars more a year, chiefly through a two cents a pound increase in the rate on bulk mail, which now goes for 14 cents a pound.

Parcel post rates were left unchanged.

During the winter months, the diner closes at midnight, State police said.

On entering the building, police said, the burglar (or burglars) apparently discovered the dog.

The animal was discovered yesterday morning when the diner was opened for the day. It had apparently been killed by a sharp blow on the side of the head. Police believe the dog died immediately.

After gaining entry, the thieves proceeded to ransack the diner of most of its available supply of food.

These were the items listed as stolen by owner Darr in his report to police:

Three boxes of minute steaks; ten pounds of halibut fillet; ten pounds of hamburger patties; three boxes of candy; 11 pair of brown work gloves.

Also 25 T-bone steaks; 25 tenderloin steaks; 50 veal cutlets; 75 pairs of one style women's stockings; 75 pairs of another style; and one three-headed electric razor.

Five merchandising machines were also broken into, police said. These were a "juke box," a "shootin' game," a cigarette machine and two pinball machines.

Considerable damage was also caused to equipment—including machines—police said.

Investigation of the burglary is being carried on by Weber, aided by other troopers at the Stroudsburg sub-station.

Unrest Spreads In East Reich

Berlin (AP) — A wave of unrest is spreading among East German industrial workers over the Soviet blockade of Germany unity plans in the Big Four foreign ministers' conference, it was reliably reported last night.

Border crossers brought to American quarters a series of reports that added up to something more than isolated discontent. Incidents occurred in Dresden, Chemnitz, Greiz, Gera and Oelsnitz, soon after the Communist government of East Germany announced its plan for unity last Saturday night.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov injected the plan into the Big Four parley Thursday and just about ended all hope of unification by that very act.

Apparently aiming at frightening East Germans, Willi Solph, Communist interior minister in the East zone, last night warned that "provocations" would be ruthlessly suppressed by his 250,000 police.

Pressroom Fire Traps 40 In News Building

New York (AP) — A pressroom fire yesterday choked the 36-story New York Daily News Building with blinding smoke, and temporarily trapped about 40 gasping, shouting workers on the third floor.

They got out by aerial ladders run up to windows from fire trucks.

The hour-long fire billowed up the third-floor press room of the skyscraper building, which houses the nation's biggest-circulation newspaper.

Heavy, black smoke poured from windows, and spread through the structure via ventilation pipes.

The hundreds of employees on the first nine floors were evacuated until the blaze was brought under control.

About a dozen workers and firemen were overcome by smoke.

Beeson Offers To Resign Post

Washington (AP) — Albert C. Beeson dramatically offered yesterday to resign outright from his former business post and thus give up pension rights which have held up Senate action on his nomination to the National Labor Relations Board.

At stake was $4,400, representing contributions to his account in the pension fund of his old employer, the Food Machinery and Chemical Corp. of San Jose, Calif.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), committee chairman, said the resignation would be effective as of the date Beeson takes his oath of office if he is confirmed by the Senate.

Steady Upturn In Business In Latter Half Of 1954 Seen Possible By Federal Official

Washington (AP) — The Senate House Economic Committee was told by a Labor Department official yesterday that it is "entirely possible" there may be a fairly rapid expansion of business during the last half of this year.

That estimate was offered by Robert C. Goodwin, director of the Bureau of Employment Security, who said unemployment is expected to average 2,600,000 in the first six months of 1954 and then drop to about 2 million for the next 12 months.

The present rise in unemployment may be checked by mid-March, he said. He estimated the number of jobless in January at 2,350,000, which means he expects it to continue rising for a while to average out at 2,600,000 for the first half of this year.

The committee is studying President Eisenhower's legislative proposals aimed at maintaining a high level of production and employment.

Goodwin told the lawmakers that total unemployment in the recession year of 1949-50 was 3,738,000 and said:

"State and local employment office reports, as well as the information given them by major employers, seem to indicate that the present adjustment period is not likely to be as severe as" that which marked the 1949-50 recession.

"Rather," he added, "they are cautiously optimistic that the re-

Talks Called In Walkout

Scranton (AP) — Federal and state mediators announced last night that they would meet today with union and management representatives in a last ditch effort to settle a strike that threatens to close 135 A&P stores in two states.

A spokesman for Local 229, AFL—General Drivers and Helpers Union, said that if A&P makes a new offer at the negotiating session it will be put to the union membership for a vote either tonight or Sunday.

The union represents 200 warehousemen who walked off the job at two warehouses here last Sunday. The two warehouses are the main supply points for stores in northeastern Pennsylvania and southern New York.

The company and announced plans to shut down the stores at 6 p.m. today.

No negotiating sessions were held yesterday.

Hyasta Leaves For New York

London (AP) — John Hyasta — thin and sallow but "feeling great" — took off by plane last night for New York on the last lap of his flight to freedom after five grim years of imprisonment, escape and hiding in Red Czechoslovakia.

The 26-year-old naturalized American saved for the home folks the details of his daring adventures. A warm welcome awaits him at Hillside, N. J., home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hyasta, also naturalized citizens.

EVERY SATURDAY NIGHT

If a man ties a string around his finger every Saturday night, will it remind him to go to Church on Sunday?
Hardly! The man who needs that kind of reminder to care for his soul would never go to the trouble of tying the knot.
No one ever forgets to go to Church! But some folks just stay away intentionally.
And it's not that they forget to set the alarm on Saturday night! Those folks have made it a habit not to set the alarm.
The decision to worship God is not one to be made every Saturday night, or every Sunday morning. It is a decision that Christians make once and for all!
Make that decision today! Plan to worship every Sunday. Bring your entire family to Church every Sunday. Pledge your constant faithfulness to God—with no strings attached.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Operation Dig Begins Today At Beehive

Bangor — "Operation Dig" has been scheduled by members of the Adult Council and Youth Council of the Beehive Youth Center in Bangor. The project is to excavate a few additional feet in the cellar of the Youth Center to make room available for gymnastic activities for the male members of the Youth Center.

The work is being done by the boys of the Youth Center and Volunteer Adult help. Robert Bartlett and Sherwood Hill, of the Adult Council, Rodney Miller and Paul Peters, of the Youth Council, are spearheading the work. Also supervising the work are borough engineer David O. Pritchard, and council members John Casoli and Elwood Parsons.

Last Monday night, at their monthly meeting, the town council gave the Youth Center permission to proceed with "Operation Dig", and plans were set forth on Thursday night with work getting under way today.

Also at Thursday's joint meeting of the adult and youth councils, it was decided to present the annual minstrel with Mrs. Johnnie Gruver as director. Tentative dates were set for April 22 and 23.

It was announced that Mrs. Charles Smith is making arrangements for a nationally-known table tennis exhibition to be held next September at the Beehive.

The property committee was instructed to investigate the cost of installing a drinking fountain at the center.

The Northampton County Board of Registration was granted use of the front room of the Center on March 1 from 1 to 5:30 p.m. and from 6 to 9 p.m. for registration.

Volunteers for Thursday night supervision were also announced as follows: Feb. 11, Mrs. James Rowlands; Feb. 18, Earl Kressler; Feb. 25, Mrs. Carl Van Horn, and March 4, Mrs. Lloyd Everett.

Proceeds will be used to help teen-agers set up a permanent Youth Center in the area and for other civic projects. Tickets are on sale from Woman's Club members; will be available at the auditorium on the night of the performance. (Daily Record Photo)

Pocketbook Found By Borough Postal Worker Restored To New York State Chicken Dealer

If "honesty is the best policy" is a good rule to go by, then Harry M. Werkheiser, 728 Bryant St., Stroudsburg, ought to be considered one of Stroudsburg's best policy-makers today.

Harry is employed at the borough post office where his normally genial smile greets money order and mail registry customers each day.

On his way to work yesterday morning, Harry spotted an object in the middle of Seventh St. bridge that looked suspiciously like a billfold.

It was 6:40 a.m. Harry walked to the center of the bridge, picked the object up.

Sure enough, it was a money-carrier. Harry took the billfold with him to the post office.

When he went home at 10 a.m., he looked through the pocketbook. There were some papers, about $100 in money and a name and address.

Harry put through a long distance call to the man—Monroe Babcock—at Ithaca RD3, N. Y.

After listening to the Stroudsburg man's description of the bill, Babcock said:

"Sure, it belongs to my son, Bruce. He's in New Jersey with a load of chickens; went through Stroudsburg sometime last night on his way back home."

The elder Babcock promised to try to get in touch with his son in New Jersey and ask him to stop at the Stroudsburg post office on his way back through.

During the day the Ithaca man contacted Stroudsburg State police, asked their aid in finding his son who was apparently on his way back home.

Stroudsburg Trooper Pete Walsh stopped the younger Babcock in the borough; informed him that a local resident had found his billfold.

At 3 p.m. Bruce appeared at the post office; identified the billfold and set out on his return trip home.

No reward was offered for finding the money. The elder Babcock, however, asked Mr. Werkheiser over the phone if he could "raise" chickens.

Harry told him no, he didn't think so. He lives in a restricted area.

Bankers See Little Stimulus Here From New Discount Rate

Yesterday's announcement by the Federal Reserve Board authorizing their banks in five districts lower discount rates is not expected to create any stimulus locally.

Officials of three banks in the Stroudsburgs and one in Tobyhanna under the federal reserve program called the move more psychological than material. They point out that the power to borrow from the federal reserve is exercised only on a few occasions, and even then monies are borrowed on short-term notes, from 30 to 90 days.

Cigarette Sales Remain Steady In Pennsylvania

Harrisburg (AP)—The sale of Pennsylvania cigarette tax stamps has remained about the same in volume during the last eight months despite nationwide publicity linking lung cancer with cigarette smoking.

No appreciable drop has been noted in the number of four cent tax stamps sold by the Revenue Department since last June, a report showed yesterday.

"The sale of tax stamps fluctuates somewhat but not nearly enough to indicate that there has been any cutting down of smoking in Pennsylvania," said George A. Nally, state comptroller.

"There has been no more curtailment of smoking in Pennsylvania than there has been in coffee drinking since the price of coffee went up," Nally said, adding:

"I guess Pennsylvanians will have their coffee and cigarettes no matter what happens."

Principals Call Meeting Feb. 23

A meeting of Monroe County Principals Association will be held Tuesday, Feb. 23 at noon at Chestnut Hill, it was announced yesterday.

Raymond P. Harding, Stroud Township principal and head of the county organization, urged all principals to attend the meeting.

Dates will be discussed for this year's FFA contests in parliamentary procedure, public speaker and rifle matches.

Manufacturers To See Films

Trout fishing films will be shown Monday night when Monroe County Manufacturers Association meets at Penn Stroud Hotel at 6:30.

Bidwell Is Sentenced To Penitentiary

Alvoya Duane Bidwell, 25—the man who once broke out of Monroe County Jail by locking a deputy in—became the "man who would not talk" yesterday in Lackawanna County Court.

Bidwell's loss of memory occurred when he was asked by President Judge T. Linus Hoban to name the "fences" to whom he sold stolen jewelry. Bidwell was sentenced later by Judge Otto P. Robinson.

He had previously pleaded guilty to burglary charges.

When asked to whom he had sold the stolen jewelry, however, Bidwell would say only "I was drunk and don't remember."

Questioning about $1,298 in loot taken from Stampler's jewelry store in Olyphant, Bidwell admitted this burglary and six others in the Scranton area.

He was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar and costs of prosecution plus imprisonment in Eastern Penitentiary from five to ten years.

Bidwell's parents appeared in court with an offer to make restitution of the jewelry for their son.

Bidwell was sentenced to a year in county jail in 1951 after he pleaded guilty in Monroe County court to a charge of stealing a car. He had first been sentenced to Eastern, but the sentence was changed following an appeal from members of the family.

On Nov. 29, 1951, Bidwell locked Deputy Grover Hay into the cellblock as Hay was locking cells for the night. Bidwell escaped from the jail.

He was arrested in Lackawanna county on Dec. 9, 1953 on a charge of committing burglaries in that area.

These charges were heard in the Lackawanna court yesterday.

Fire Loss Estimated At $1,000

Mount Pocono—Fire destroyed a three-room building along the D.L. and W. railroad, tracks east of Pocono Summit Thursday.

Value of the building was estimated at $1,000 by Mount Pocono firemen who answered the alarm.

The structure was unoccupied. Its owner was a Taylor, Pa. man who had previously maintained the building as a home for rental.

Alarm was turned in at "about 1:30 a.m." The frame building was completely destroyed, according to Ernest Bishop, Mount Pocono fire chief.

Bushkill—Twenty-one children attended the library hour held Monday night at the Bushkill Free Library in the firehouse.

Mrs. Argus Miller, assisted by Mr. Miller, showed slides of scenes in Bushkill and surrounding area, including one rare picture of the Rosecrans Ferry on the Delaware River. Mrs. Miller narrated incidents pertaining to the slides.

Mrs. Lawrence Butz, librarian, explained the use of books and invited the children to use the library.

Wholesale Price Index Declines

Washington (AP)—The wholesale price index dropped three-tenths of 1 per cent in the week ended Feb. 2, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported yesterday.

The index stood at 110.6 per cent of the 1947-49 wholesale price average.

The bureau said that lower prices on farm products and processed foods were largely responsible for the decline. The index for all other commodities was unchanged for the fifth consecutive week.

Prospects Good For Beaver Season Opening February 15, Veteran Trapper Reports

Prospects for beaver season which opens at 7 a. m. Feb. 15 look good in Monroe, Pike and Wayne Counties, according to veteran trapper Frederick Batchler, of East Stroudsburg RD 1.

Describing Pennsylvania as one of the finest beaver sections in the state, Batchler said it is expected to yield good pelts during the season which closes at noon March 6.

Park Project To Be Aired In New York

J. H. Kunkle, official of Pocono Forestry Association, will represent that organization at the annual dinner meeting of Edison Pioneers in Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, at noon today.

Mr. Kunkle will supplement a report to be submitted by Walter von Brock, former Stroudsburg resident, on progress made in behalf of creating a national park monument to the late Thomas A. Edison at Delaware Water Gap.

Mr. von Brock, who has devoted a quarter of a century to promotion of the inter-state park, recreation and cultural center, has brought the park plan into sharp focus with National Park authorities in the last few years.

Mr. Kunkle assisted recently in conducting National Park investigators on a tour of the region in which the proposed park would be located.

Edison Pioneers, according to Mr. von Brock, are to be asked to take some direct action on the Edison memorial project.

Mr. von Brock is a member of the Edison Pioneers by reason of having been a secretary to Charles Edison, son of the great inventor-scientist, at Orange, N. J.

Wildlife Service Positions Open

The regional director, first U. S. Civil Service, announced yesterday that a new announcement has been issued inviting applications for positions in region five of the Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, which covers the six New England States, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. The positions cover a wide salary range from $2750 a year to $5060 a year.

The examinations are for the positions of U. S. Game Management Agent, Fish Culturist and Refuge Aid. Appropriate experience is required for each position, and a written test is required for Game Management Agent and for Fish Culturist. Applications will be received until March 3, 1954.

Details regarding the experience or education required and information on how to file application may be obtained from the Regional Director, First U. S. Civil Service Region, Post Office and Courthouse Bldg., Boston 9, Mass.

Postage Meter Machine Placed In Operation

A postage meter machine designed as a time-saver for postal workers was installed yesterday at the Stroudsburg Postoffice.

Fred Rhodes, postmaster, said the new machine replaces the old method of placing individual stamps in various denominations on parcel post packages, and will expedite handling, especially at Christmas when business is at its peak.

Under the old plan a clerk had to use several stamps to designate the amount necessary to ship the package. The machine turns out a single stamp, imprinted with the proper amount. This stamp even is moistened with mucilage, speeding up work that much more.

The machine prints stamps up to $10 and records every sale.

Activities Discussed By Firemen

Bangor—Three local fire companies met last night.

The Rescue Fire Co. met with Roger Weidlich in charge to plan their annual street festival on June 3, 4 and 5.

Committees for the festival will be chosen later. William Long, secretary, gave the yearly report of the relief association.

Robert Bartlett gave a report on the successful card party held last month by the Rescue Fire Co.

Liberty Fire Co. met with William Price in charge to discuss plans for their card party to be held on March 5 with Troy Reigel as chairman.

Betty Green Writes Of Parisian Numbers By Designers Jacques Fath And Jean Desses

They're the "Most" in Paris!

By Betty Green

Special Paris Correspondent for The Daily Record

Paris, France—The Most Enchanting Accessory—The net stole at Jean Desses that reminds you of Victorian flowers under glass. (Remember them on the mantle in grandma's parlor?). The center of the stole—the section that falls over the shoulders and around the back of the neck—is filled with assorted flowers and sewn into a sort of transparent bolster role. The ends hang open and long. You could make it yourself.

The Most Extravagant Cottons

The white pique evening wraps, dripping with silver fox (for which the couture is conducting a real campaign). Patou shows a silver fox bordered white cotton pique cape over a brick red knee evening sheath. Pierre Balmain doesn't want to be provocative about it, so he sews the silver fox inside the edges of a white pique evening coat. You can't only see the fringes of the fur when the coat is closed. Aren't they just what you needed—not very much?

The Most Amusing Accessory

Jacques Fath's rhinestone studded garter clasps to clip to your own girdle or corset belt. Wear them to keep the Fath lace top from breaking out into a Can-Can solo at the oldest times.

The Most Prophetic Color Trend

Blues, from Jacques Fath's pastel "Hesitation" blue to Pierre Balmain's "Bachelorette" blue—a rich, corn-flower or bachelorette button shade seen in practically every couture collection so far.

The Most Startling Fur

Jacques Fath's coats of Giraie fur in natural brown and yellow coloring. Anybody can wear mink. Why don't YOU be different?

The Most Unusual Earrings

The jeweled frames that actually circle the entire ear. If you don't mind looking like a woman from Mars who is wired for sound, they're for you.

The Most Elegant Accessories

Glaze leather gloves in 8 and 10 button lengths which are worn with practically everything in every collection. Trouble with most of us is that we've forgotten how handsome good leather gloves are; how much elegance they can add to the simplest costume. Paris mannequins wear white glaze leather gloves with beige and beige leather gloves with gray. They wear blue or golden yellow, in leather gloves to match their hats.

The Biggest Scarfs

Jacques Fath's oversize white organdie four-in-hand ties that hang almost to the hemline of suits; his giant stoles that cover the entire front of any garment. Takes a lot of draping and holding, so better not wear one to the supermarket.

The Prettiest Suits

The Jacques Fath suits, darted and waistcoated to accent the bosom, whittle the middle and curve out the hips. You might be able to get a Fath original for about $500. Will one be enough?

The Loveliest Prints

The rose printed taffetas, chiffons and organzas in every collection. The leather prints at Jean Patou. The incredible flower prints that you want to pick right off the fabrics at Pierre Balmain. The Watteau inspired warp print taffetas at Jacques Fath.

The Lushiest Laces

The white lace evening coat over a yellow satin gown at Jean Patou. The gray lace costume suit bordered in mink and the navy lace tailleur collared and cuffed in ermine at Balmain.

The Most Original Bridal Gown

The short pink organdie for "second wedding" at Jacques Heim, with twin net trains extending from the rose clustered short sleeves. It would be legal for first weddings, too.

The Slickest Home Sewing Idea

Belts of your coat fabric to wear on your dress, as Madeleine De Rauch shows throughout her collection. You no longer have just a coat and a dress; you have an ENSEMBLE, Madam.

The Most Repeated Trimming

Star-shaped white neckwear, as at Jacques Fath and De Rauch.

The Most Nostalgic Silhouette

Jacques Heim's "Trumpet" with its waistline marked at the Carter Tip and its "jupette" (little skirt-to-you), pleated or flared below. Reminds you of the long waisted, short skirted fashions of the terrible 20s, with one difference—the Heim Trumpets are sweetly fitted to the figure—curving at the bosom, cinching at the waist.

The Most Adorable Shoes

The pointed pumps with the "Eccentric Romanticism" at the Christian Dior-Delmon shoe salon. To save you the trouble of searching in your French dictionary, "Eccentric" means "heeled" and "Romantic" means "romantic." It's a low heel, extremely curved like the heels of the 1850s.

The Most Static Feature

Lengths. They remain where we left them last season—from 13 to 15 inches from the floor. But, with Dior and Schiaparelli and Balenciaga still to show their collections—anything, but anything might happen.

Watch for More of the "Most" from Paris—where the weather is COLD and the fashions are HOT.

Much Needlework Being Planned By Gap Auxiliary

Delaware Water Gap — Mrs. George Hauser and Mrs. Henry Kulp were the hostesses for the Presbyterian Auxiliary meeting held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. H. J. LaBar. After the business meeting, over which Mrs. Hauser presided, cherry pie and ice cream were served to Mrs. LaBar, Mrs. Florence Davis, Mrs. Francis Drake, Mrs. Clifford Hauser, Mrs. Russell Buzzard, Mrs. Richard Hauser, Mrs. H. W. Brodhead, Mrs. Edythe Glebe, Mrs. John Wilson, Jr., Mrs. Herbert Baker, Mrs. Elam Gray, and Mrs. M. E. Lefler.

Mrs. Francis Drake, missionary committee chairman, announced the mission sewing quota for the new year; sheets and heavy operating towels for India, baby clothes for Arizona and India. Members pledged the number of articles they would make.

The ways and means committee presented plans for future activities. One of these on which Mrs. Herbert Baker and Mrs. Elam Gray will be co-chairman, is a baked ham supper to be held from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., Feb. 20 in the Sunday School room.

Mrs. Richard Hauser and Mrs. Gray are the Flower Committee for February.

Mrs. H. W. Brodhead gave the auxiliary the top for an "Old-fashioned Double Irish Ring" quilt, and the women will meet in the near future to quilt it when it is set up at the home of Mrs. George Hauser. The Tuesday night sewing meets are to continue, but the next one will be changed to an all day meeting and will be at the home of Mrs. Clifford Hauser. Those attending will purchase lunch, thus adding to the auxiliary funds.

Memorial Book For Library Of School

Newfoundland — Announcement of a chicken and biscuit dinner, to be served in the Legion Home, Greentown, on Saturday, February 20, beginning at 5:30 p.m. was made at the monthly meeting of Unit No. 859, American Legion Auxiliary, here Tuesday night.

Mrs. Loftus Smith Jr., president of the unit, named Mrs. Robert Ruchfort as chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. The latter will choose her own committee.

Routine business took up most of the session with planning of the forthcoming Heart Fund campaign as the principal item. The local unit will work with the Wayne-Pike council of the auxiliary, which has taken over the work this year in the two-county area.

The group voted to place a book in the Greene-Dreher-Sterling School library in memory of the late Celia Osborne, a charter member of the group. The unit's charter was drawn for a one month period as a tribute to the former member.

Local Rebekahs At Tannersville

Tannersville — The Elsie Longacre Rebekah Lodge held their regular meeting on Wednesday night, Feb. 3, presided over by Betty Brader, Noble Grand.

The program for the social hour was arranged by members of the lodge from Stroudsburg and included a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Pauline Sebring Snyder, who was the recipient of many fine gifts.

A wall mirror was presented to Mrs. Doris M. Metzgar, Mrs. Betty Morgan was chairman of the entertainment committee.

The group plans a card party for Wednesday night, Feb. 17, at the Lodge Hall, to which the public is invited. There will be prizes and refreshments.

A brief business session will be held before this party. At the close of the evening, refreshments of sandwiches, cake and hot beverages were served. Mrs. Beatrice DeHaven is chairman of the refreshment committee.

Founders' Day Observed At Jackson Twp.

A Founder's Day program was given by the children of Jackson Township school Tuesday after the regular PTA meeting. The program was as follows:

Recitations: "For Valentine's Day," John Woodling; "If All the Skies," Larry Johnson; "The Fairies," by Geraldine Zalko; "Welcome," Diane Lotz; "Indian Children," Margaret Ann Butz; "My Joy," by Tommy Derriek; "Washington," Cathy Martin; "Silver," Judy Doll; "The Little Turtle," Daniel Hennings; "Daisies," Darlene Schaller; "The Duel," Jeanette Bryson; trio: "Whispering Hope," Catherine Warner, Jean Hufford, Lois Voige. Piano solos: "Starlight Waltz," by Judy Lee; "Simple Oven," Lois Voige. Accordion solo: "The Fairy Dance," by Danny Mager. Vocal solos: "O, My Papa," Jeannette Bryson; "I Believe," Pamela Conklin; "I Had But Fifty Cents," by Betty Altmeze; "The Three Dancing Teddy Bears," by Diane Lotz; "Imitation of Martha Raye," with Carol Hillard, playing the part.

After the program, refreshments were served to all.

The next PTA meeting will be held March 2, at 7:30 p.m. at the school. All parents are invited.

A nominating committee will be appointed to nominate officers for the next year.

The program for March will be a "Crazy Hats Contest," all persons present being expected to wear an odd hat. A prize will be awarded to the wearer of the funniest hat.

Auxiliary Marks 25th Birthday

Mt. Pocono — The Auxiliary of the Mount Pocono Fire Company will celebrate their 25th anniversary at the regular meeting on Feb. 9 at 8 p.m. at the fire hall.

The president, Mrs. Gerald Possinger states that this meeting will honor all those who were active in the forming of an auxiliary as well as the past presidents. An invitation is extended to all members to be present and make this a gala evening.

Some people mail their comic Valentines anonymously. Not my friend Florence Predmore. She left one on my desk yesterday in broad daylight, then told me about it. It's cute too . . . a Rust Craft reproduction of an original published in England back in 1822. (Such a good reproduction, by the way, I'm thinking of framing it.)

The drawing is reminiscent of those found in Godey's Lady Book—except for the face. This fashionable creature with ermine tail muff, flower filled bonnet, and eye glass on chain, is a reasonable facsimile of a witch—minus her broomstick. The verse, in old-English script, reads:

The dandyzettes are bumpy grown
And every gown's a gown balloon.
They've baker knees and taper toes
And gimlet eyes and needle nose,
And bonnets with a steeple head
And tassell'd poke and flower bed.
And since in thee all these combine,
I chuse thee for my Valentine.

The story of the Valentine custom is printed on the back of this card, over the signature of Ernest Dudley Chase, vice president of Rust Craft and author of "The Romance of Greeting Cards." According to Mr. Chase, Valentine's Day honors a young priest who was beheaded on February 14th 271 A.D. for his refusal to renounce Christianity. He is said to have written his final letter to the daughter of his jailer, using the signature "From Your Valentine." Shortly thereafter love lotteries were established and each year during February Roman bachelors would draw the names of eligible young ladies from an urn placed in the public square. This custom, a fore-runner of today's "Blind Date," later spread to Germany and England.

The earliest known published Valentine is a product of Milan, Italy, and the year 1590. The first English Valentine is dated 1684 and reads:

Good mornow, Valentine,
God send you ever
To keep your promise
And be constant ever.
Shakespeare mentioned St. Valentine's Day in Hamlet. In 1419 Sir Henry Wotton wrote, "And birds had drawn their Valentines," while in Samuel Pepy's diary of 1667 there is a reference to the St. Valentine Day lotteries.

Much of the romance of the Valentine is due to a young lady from Worcester, Massachusetts, Esther Allen Howland, who is credited with having made and marketed the lace type of greeting which carries a real message of devotion and love. A graduate of Mount Holyoke College in 1837 she saw an English Valentine and became intrigued with the idea of publishing them. From her first attempts with bits of lace and romantic words, a large and successful business was built.

At the moment we at Wyckoff's are very interested in old Valentines. Numerous customers have already brought in their prized cards of yesteryear for our exhibit of old Valentines, and we have promises of many others. We are interested too in the progress of the fund-raising campaign of the American Heart Association, now being so widely publicized here. Today, according to the chairman, Mrs. Parke Kunkle, the plastic heart will be here in Wyckoff's, so that our customers may contribute if they wish to this worthy cause. Do see it when you bring your old Valentines in today—and remember that February is the month of months in which to have a heart. There isn't one of us who isn't suffering, in some pleasant or unpleasant way, from a "cardiac" condition.

Ad Promotion Not Approved By C Of C

An advertising promotion proposal being made by a representative of a firm listed with Pocono Mountain Chamber of Commerce as Royal Advertising Co., 50 Weyman Ave., New Rochelle, N. Y., has not been approved by the Chamber, Harold Swenson, executive secretary said last night.

Mr. Swenson said the project, described to him by a man who identified himself as Harold Sullivan, has not been disapproved. Sullivan's request for sanction of his project has not been processed by the Chamber, Mr. Swenson explained.

Contacts with local business are involved in the project and some were made yesterday, Swenson advised. In all cases where members of the Chamber were involved, a check-back was made with the Chamber office.

Mr. Swenson told these people that the Sullivan application had not yet cleared the Chamber's processing of such application.

Old-Timers Write Copy For School Paper, Recalling Years Of Progress In Eastburg

East Stroudsburg High School students stepped back into history this week to take a look at their school and their ancestors.

In a special edition, devoted entirely to the historical background of their school and community, the students' newspaper, "The Eastburger" provides a chatty summary of "70 years of change and progress."

To get this view of the past, faculty adviser John Eckert contacted a dozen or more long-time borough residents.

Each of the old-timers was asked to do a special article on those things which he (or she) remembered from the pages of the past.

Response to the requests was almost unanimously favorable, Eckert reported.

The current issue boasts four stories on various phases of community progress with the names of well-known local residents under their headlines.

One of the most startling things apparent in reading the new "Eastburger" edition is the emphasis placed on "overcrowding in the public schools" during the early 1900s.

This condition is referred to in two articles: the first by Mrs. Maude Stem; the second by former school principal E. E. Kuntz.

Mrs. Stem describes her childhood attendance in East Stroudsburg schools in this manner: "When I attained school age the main school was housed on South Courtland St. on what is now the site of the Methodist Church. It was overcrowded so the children living in the northern part of the borough went to a one-room school in a residence on what is now King St. Miss Ada Dufour was the teacher. That is where I began my education, learning my ABC's and reading from a chart."

"We (pupils) outgrew this room in one year. By the next term we were sent to a new building above Millford Crossing and in a little while filled two rooms there."

This building was eventually referred to as "Mud College," Mrs. Stem says. The "Upturners" attended it until the "new building of 12 large rooms was completed on N. Courtland St."

The Kuntz article is headed "Retrospection." It begins: "In December, 1929, the board members of the East Stroudsburg School District were discussing a subject which is not unfamiliar to school board members today. This subject was the crowded condition of our schools and the need for new buildings."

In 1929, Mr. Kuntz continues, the "only school plant was the building on N. Courtland St." with senior high on the second floor and junior high occupying the "rest of the front hall."

"Besides the crowded conditions of the schools, the school board had just received a petition with 218 names asking that a new grade school building be erected on the east side of the D.L. and W. tracks," the former school official continues.

A site was finally selected for the new school. Says Mr. Kuntz: "The tract was used by Mr. Fenner for a truck (garden) patch. It is still remembered as a very valuable and highly successful truck farm."

No plans were made for erecting the building in 1929, however. It was a bad year, Kuntz says, and the matter was tabled.

The tract was finally purchased in 1931 after the board had decided to increase its bonded indebtedness. Estimated cost of the new building was set at $82,500 by Harold Berger, the contractor. Cost of the tract of land: $10,000.

During this same year, Mr. Kuntz recalls, Carl T. Secor was elevated from a position as science teacher to principal of the high school. Secor is now supervising principal of all borough schools.

At the same time, the borough became a third class school district. In another article printed in the current issue, J. H. Kunkle, president of Pocono Forestry Association gives an outline of that group's history.

The Forestry Association then known as the "Pocono Protective Fire Association" was founded in 1901, Kunkle says, in the law office of the late A. Mitchell Palmer on Seventh St. in Stroudsburg.

One of the reasons for the organization's inception, says Kunkle, was the danger of fires near railroad tracks through the forested regions of the county. This, says the forester-historian, was in the days when locomotives had no "spark-arresters" on their engines.

Other articles in the edition deal with the background of the Daniel Brodhead family written by Mrs. Horace Walters of the Monroe County Historical Society; a discussion of ancient borough trolley cars, complete with a photo loaned by Dr. LeRoy Koehler; a reminiscence of early schools and books by Mrs. Mary E. Flory and "photographs of the 1954 and 1956 basketball teams."

The paper's front page is illustrated with an early map of the borough and small cuts showing the Lackawanna House, Loder's general store, Highland Home Cottage (Blair) and the Kistler and Shotwell residences.

Other features: An excerpt from the Stroudsburg newspaper, "The Jeffersonian," circa 1870 which says East Stroudsburg has gotten off to a flying start and will soon excel her older neighbor unless Stroudsburg "bestirs" itself.

East Stroudsburg market quotations for 1950 show the following prices on staple foods: potatoes, 40 cents per bushel; apples, five cents a pound; pork, six cents a pound; ham, 11 cents a pound and butter, 24 cents a pound.

Oh, yes. Coffee was only 12 cents a pound in those days.

Mrs. W. E. Andrews

Mrs. Annie Smith and Mrs. Emma Trach were recent Stroudsburg visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kennermer, Wind Gap, called on Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kreimoyer, recently.

William E. Keller and son Edwin called on the former's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Dorschner, of Burgers Hollow, recently.

The Ladies Aid of St. Paul's Lutheran Church held a surprise party for one of their members, Mrs. Lizzie Bruch, recently. Present at the P. O. S. of A. Hall, were: Mrs. Charles Christman, Mrs. Paul Serfass, Mrs. Clara Sterner, Mrs. H. A. Shafer, Mrs. Emma Trach, Mrs. Evan Koch, and Mr. and Mrs. Marley Johnson, of Palmerton.

Callers of the Stanley Hawk family recently were Paul Smith, of here, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Strohl

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Nazareth High's decision to use four football officials in all of its home games next fall should bring harmony to the Lehigh-Northampton League. The circuit, by a unanimous vote decided that all schools in the circuit must follow a standard practice of using four qualified men to officiate football games among loop rivals. In the past Nazareth has been the only school in the circuit that has refused to go along with the four-official idea. The Blue Eagles have operated with three.

There have been many instances of the three-official setup causing hard feelings between Nazareth and other members of the circuit. Only last year a horribly wrong call was leveled against East Stroudsburg, a fact that films of the game upheld, when not one of the three officials in the game was in proper position to make a correct call. Although none of the officials were in calling position, one took it upon himself to penalize the Cavaliers and truly ruin the contest. There's nothing more harmful to sports than a bum call by officials.

It was only fitting that Jack Kist, likeable head football and basketball coach at East Stroudsburg, place the four-official motion before the circuit. But it did surprise this scribe a little bit that all teams in the circuit approved the motion with very little, if any, discussion. Providing the officials work hard and uphold their end of the new deal, the football officiating problem in the Lehigh-Northampton League should show an improvement next season.

The Lehigh-Northampton circuit also voted to increase the pay of football and basketball officials from $10 to $12 and baseball umpires from seven to nine dollars. The move was obviously made to keep pace with the Lehigh Valley League. I believe that the raise in pay might be in order, with the added cost of travel and other expenses, but league officials in the future must be very careful in any game salary increases handed out. It is imperative that the official situation be kept on a safe and sane basis.

Each raise handed out makes the officiating business more attractive to the individual. Newcomers, who are finding it virtually impossible to break into the "good game" bracket at the present time, will find the situation even more difficult in the future. The old timers have a very near air-tight system of grabbing off the good assignments, while giving the lesser lights the junior varsity and junior high games. It is quite possible that we may wake up some day to find our officiating ranks depleted, unless we gradually get some young blood into the ranks. Right now old age is prevalent in the officiating business.

The circuit also made sports writers throughout the Lehigh Valley happy by sticking to its plan of starting junior varsity basketball games at 6:30 p.m., even though Parkland frowned on the idea. The early start, 15 minutes sooner than any other circuit in the area has proven popular with the sports scribers, as it gives them a working margin of 15 minutes to half an hour before the other landlaid of games pour into their department. Morning paper sports editors are most happy over the vote, as they are the ones that must fight the battle of the deadline.

Changing the trend of conversation slightly, we'll spend the remainder of today's column on short subjects, including mentioning the fact that Harold Snider just returned from a honeymoon in Florida and Cuba. Harold was manager of Stroudsburg Speedway last summer. He'll make his home in New Jersey for the balance of the winter, but undoubtedly will return to Monroe County's only stock car racing course next spring. Stroudsburg Speedway will reportedly present a fair in August. The track plans to either purchase or rent more land to make such a venture possible.

Is it true that two of our area basketball teams would do much better in the win column if the ranks weren't split by dissension? Bob Christenberry, commissioner of boxing in New York, apparently made a deep impression on many East Stroudsburg State Teachers College students who heard him speak in the school's auditorium Thursday night. Christenberry is a fearless man who has done everything in his power to clear the scum from the top of the New York boxing situation. He is well worth hearing.

When the ESSTC basketball squad invaded Paterson, N.J., last night, Coach Chris Denis was returning home. Although Denis wasn't born and raised in Paterson his mother lives there now and it is his adopted home. The Warriors tangled with Paterson Teachers basketball decision, this one by a 46-43 margin to Parkland. The contest was played at Raub Junior High.

Cavaliers Fail With Late Spurt

Wilson Borough, first half title holder in the Lehigh-Northampton League, took another step toward the full season basketball crown last night with a thrilling 67-61 victory over East Stroudsburg before the largest crowd of the season in the N. Courtland St. gymnasium.

High mentor, flipped in points when the chips were down in the last period.

The Cavaliers, playing without the services of Co-Captain Joe Chase, who is on the shelf with a pair of injured ankles, found the going tough in the first half, but bounced back in the third and fourth periods to outplay Wilson most of the way.

Wilson, mixing height with speed, jumped into a 19-9 advantage at the end of the first period, on the strength of the scoring antics of Larry Hawk, Calvin Vogel and Duane Scaries.

The Warriors continued to hold the upper hand through the second round, 17-12, and held a commanding 36-21 advantage at the halfway mark.

East Stroudsburg roared back in the third period to play some of its best basketball of the current campaign, as Co-Captain Don Herman, went to work on the boards, Paul Turner hit from the outside and Bill Pensyl rang the bell from his special position, the pivot.

The home town charges of Coach Dick Forster outscored Wilson 22-16 in the third stanza and entered the last period on the short end of a 52-43 count.

East Stroudsburg continued its uphill fight in the last round, pulling to within five points of the visiting forces on two occasions, 54-49 and 65-60. But each time the Cavaliers came too close, one of the Wilson scoring artists rammed home an important field goal.

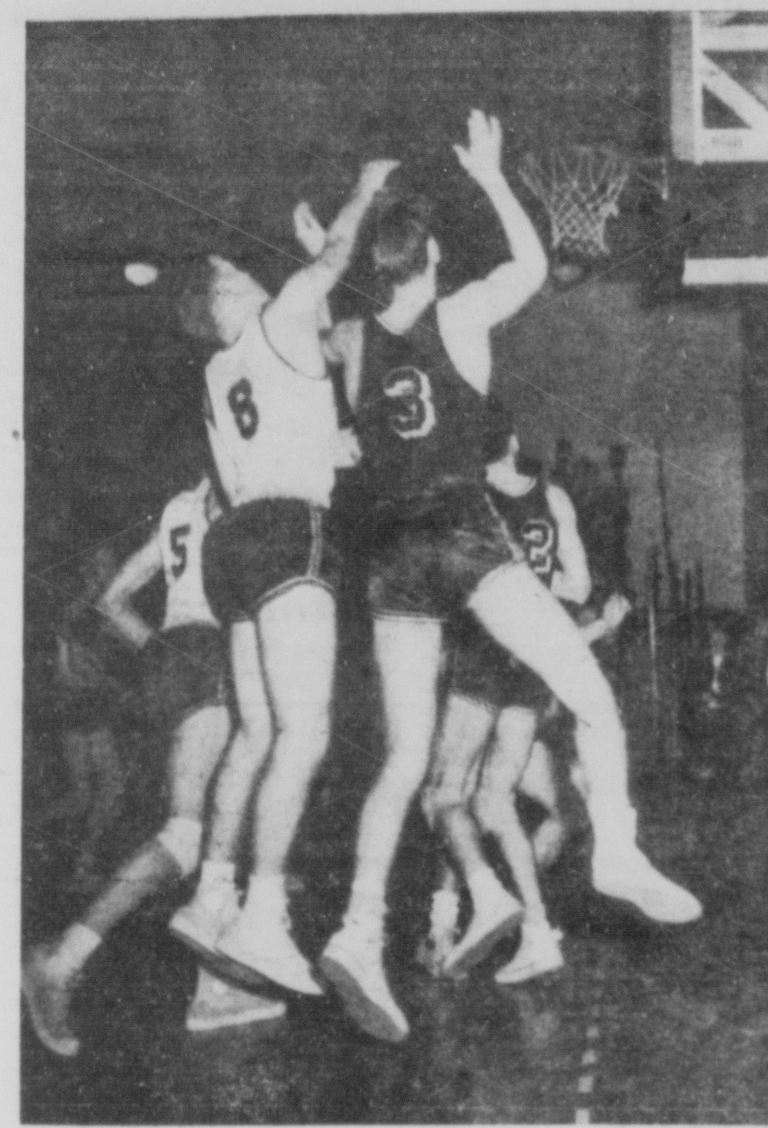

Wilson actually won the game from the foul line as each team scored 25 field goals. The Cavaliers made 11 of 19 free throws, while the Warriors hit on 17 of 29 shots from the same distance.

Herman, Pensyl and Turner paced the East Stroudsburg attack with 19, 15 and 12 counters respectively. Hawk, Vogel and Scaries paced the winning offensive with 21, 14 and 17 markers each.

East Stroudsburg junior varsity, under the guidance of Coach Del Davis, won the preliminary scrap between the two schools, 52-43, as Danny Marvin and Jim Kimler scored 17 and 16 tallies respectively.

ESSTC Cagers Win Over Paterson

Paterson, N. J.—East Stroudsburg State Teachers College put basketball victories back to back for the first time this season last night by scoring a thrilling 80-79 verdict over Paterson, here on the losing contingent's home hardwood. It was the third win in 10 outings for the Warriors.

ESSTC had a big night as the Normal Hill junior varsity turned in a 65-41 decision over the Paterson club.

Ray Kaseman's field goal, with 39 seconds on the clock, pulled the final score out of Paterson's reach, as the home club lost its fifth straight victory contest, after opening the campaign with a pair of victories.

The Warriors fought back from a six-point deficit at the end of the first half to earn the victory.

Two field goals by Kaseman and a pair of foul shots by Nick Gatto enabled the Warriors to tie the game with three minutes remaining in the final period, 74-74. Kaseman came back with another doubleheader and John Sloan, who tallied five points in the last quarter, dunked another two pointer before Kaseman put the game on ice with a shot from the floor.

Jack Newell, former Stroudsburg High star, kept the Warriors in the game in the second period by sinking three quick set shots from 20 feet out, then followed with single field goals in the third and fourth rounds for a total of 10 points.

Paterson led 20-19 at the end of the first period and 42-36 at halftime. The Warriors began to move by gaining a 23-22 edge in the third quarter and then made certain of victory with a 21-15 bulge in the last round.

The host aggregation held a 30-28 edge in field goals, but ESSTC held the upper hand in foul shooting, 24-19. The visiting cagers attempted 35 foul shots and Paterson 34.

Mountaineers Collapse In Second Half

Bethlehem — Catasauqua High evened an old score in convincing fashion here at the Moravian College field house last night as the Rough Riders rode to a 75-45 basketball victory over Stroudsburg High.

Catty made it a big night by winning the junior varsity clash between the two schools, 61-37.

Emmaus and Palmerton deadlocked for the top rung. The former earned the position with a 72-55 verdict over Slattington, first half tie and left.

Catasauqua used a fast break and a near perfect defense last night to completely throttle the Mountaineers, who now have a record of one win and the same number of defeats.

The host aggregation led 18-11 after one period and 35-28 at halftime. Both clubs came up with 17 points in the second quarter.

Stroudsburg actually was defeated in the second half and particularly in the third stanza, as Catty ran up advantages of 19-7 and 21-10 in the two quarters.

Catty made good on 17 of 31 foul shots, while Stroudsburg also hit for 17 conversions on 29 attempts. The Rough Riders held a clear 29-14 bulge in field goals.

Dick Little and Karl Weingartner led the Stroudsburg scoring attack with 15 and 10 markers each, while the Catty scoring was spread out over 10 players, Mike Dulik and "Buddy" Hargach, with 11 and 13 tallies, respectively, paced the winning offensive.

Bangor Lists Bowling Card

Bangor—One of the largest bowling tournaments ever to be held in this area will take place at the State Belt Bowling Center today, in the form of a Mixed Doubles Handicap Tournament. All proceeds will go to the March of Dimes.

Arch Dally, proprietor of the State Belt Bowling Center, announced last night that action will begin at 8 a.m. and carry through midnight. Enough entries are already in the fold to guarantee action every hour of the program. Registration will also be accepted throughout the day today.

Teams not already formed will be put together by a special drawing to be held prior to the opening match.

A special 10-minute ceremony will take place at 2 p.m., at which time Hayden Pritchard, Bangor burgess, will appear.

Bangor and the Stroudsburgs will reportedly be well represented in the field.

Giardello Stops Cartier

New York (AP)—Joey Giardello, never known as a great puncher, dropped Walter Cartier three times in the first round last night to win on an automatic technical knockout in 2:48 of their middleweight bout at Madison Square Garden. Giardello weighed 157 1/2, Cartier 161.

Pocono Manor Pro Ten Strokes Off Pace After Two Rounds Of Play In Phoenix Open Tourney

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—Australian Peter Thomson, Canada's Stan Leonard and Cary Middlecoff of Tennessee led another assault on par and tied for the lead at 133 strokes yesterday at the end of the second round of the $10,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

Leonard, 38-year-old veteran from Vancouver, B. C., tied the competitive course record at the Phoenix Country Club with a 63, eight under par for the 36-35-71 test.

Thomson, 24, former Australian Open champion and runner-up to Ben Hogan for the British Open title last summer, shot 69 in a round that produced a 100-yard wedge shot for an eagle two.

Middlecoff, 32-year-old Memphis player, came in with a 65 late in the day to bring on the three-way tie.

One stroke behind the leaders was a happy young man from Tulsa, Okla., Bob Inman, who shot a 65 for 134.

Jack Hardenoff, El Paso, Tex., the first round co-leader with Thomson, fell back with a par 71 to tie at 135 with Johnny Weitzel of Hershey, Pa., who shot a 69.

Players with scores of 145 and under qualified for the final two rounds.

Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., had 73 for 143.

Chestnuthill Takes Measure Of TTHS

Pocono Pines—Chestnuthill kept its faint hopes alive of gaining a deadlock for first place in the Monroe County League last night with a 53-49 basketball decision over Tobyhanna Township, here on the latter's home court.

TTHS gained a measure of revenge by winning the junior varsity struggle from Chestnuthill, 38-28.

Chestnuthill, currently holding down third place in the standings, had to come from behind to tie the score at 47-all with two minutes remaining to be played. The visiting team then went on to victory.

Lead Fades
TTHS, searching for its second win, trailed 14-12 at the end of the first period and 26-24 at halftime. But the home team burst into the lead at the three quarter mark, 41-37.

Willard Costanzo led TTHS in scoring with 22 points, 10 of them coming on 11 foul shots. Harry Possinger was the big gun for Chestnuthill with 29 counters.

Coolbaugh Uses Two Strong Periods To Defeat Pocono

Tannersville—Coolbaugh remained in the thick of the Monroe County Basketball League pennant race last night, but had to use strong second and fourth quarters to turn in a 41-33 victory over Pocono High, here in the latter's gymnasium.

Pocono saved some face by scoring a 489 verdict over Coolbaugh in the junior varsity struggle.

Coolbaugh, using five players all the way, had to struggle every step of the game to turn in the favorable decision.

Slim Edge
The visiting five held a slim 6-5 edge at the end of a slow moving first quarter and then jumped into a 20-14 advantage at halftime. Pocono cut its deficit to four points after three quarters, but Coolbaugh came back to earn the victory with a 14-10 edge in the final eight minutes of play.

Coolbaugh made 11 of 24 foul shots, while Pocono was presented with only four charity tosses and rang the bell three times.

Three East Stroudsburg Teachers College Athletic Squads Scheduled For Action Today

Three athletic teams from East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will swing into action today, one for the first time this year, all on foreign terrain.

The girls basketball team, under the direction of Coach Genevieve Zimbar, will tangle with College Misericordia, at Dallas, Pa. The contest is listed for 3 p.m. A previous meeting, listed for ESSTC, was postponed because of bad weather. A new date will be set for this engagement.

ESSTC's lineup will feature a lineup of Eilian Williams, Nancy Divinye and Lois Engeman in the forward section. The guard division will be handled by Grace Ashbery, Joanne Lythgoe and Shirley Yeagle.

Also making the trip will be Mary Lee Schussler, Diane Demanenko, Margorie Hessler, Leah Cutler, Doris Zerby, Joyce Steele, and team manager, Helen Babin.

The ESSTC swimming team, fresh from a favorable decision over West Chester, will attempt to protect its spotless record against a highly regarded Cortland tank squad, in the Cortland, N. Y., pool.

This meet, originally slated for Saturday, March 6, is scheduled to start at 2 p.m.

Coach Frank Grima announced last night that his team would lineup virtually the same as it did against W. Chester last week. The ESSTC wrestling squad will attempt to break a losing habis against Swarthmore College, on the latter's home mats, at 2:30 p.m. It will be the first wrestling clash between the two schools.

ESSTC has dropped decisions to two of the best wrestling teams in Pennsylvania in its only two outings to date. The Warriors bowed to Millersville, 26-5, and to Lock Haven, 32-0.

Coach George Ockershausen announced last night that he would stick with the same lineup that appeared in the first two matches. This means Bob Murphy will appear in the 125 pound class; Roy Everts, 130; Jerry Rushin, 137; Jim McCullen, 147; Jim Revello, 157; Joe Meyers, 167; Ernie Searfoss, 177, and Ken Cox, heavyweight. The ESSTC wrestling squad will attempt to break a losing are able to work for long periods at a time, and seldom lose your temper though you do give too short answers occasionally. Develop your capabilities! Birthdate of: Sir Henry Irving, famous English actor-manager.

DOGS, DOGS, DOGS, DOGS! Things were a mite hectic at Stroudsburg High School this week. The reason? Junior class members and their director Miss Anna Stem were holding "tryouts" for the leading canine role in their production of Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen." Some of the contestants showed up wearing smiles; others looked bewildered by it all and a couple resented the presence of so many dogs on one stage. Shown in photo are the following children: (front) Eileen Ackerman, Marie Cohen, Pamela Bonser, Nancy Ravert, Terry Buck, Nancy Westbrook, Susan Harmon; (back row) Bill Morman, Nancy Bowman, Floyd Frisbie, Flora Brands and Miss Stem. When the tryouts were finished, Miss Stem had decided on the dog held by Miss Westbrook in the photo. The name's Tinky. He's the pet of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Levy, 1640 N. Fifth St. In the play he'll be known as "Floppit." Has the ears for it, too, since he's a Pekingese. Other dogs, said Miss Stem, showed remarkable talent; did themselves (and their owners) proud during the tryout session. Both leading dog-roles in the play have now been cast. (Daily Record Photo)

Spend A Day In Paris With Betty Green For Dizzying Whirl Of Couture Showings

By Betty Green

(Special Paris Correspondent For The Daily Record)

Paris, France—If you have been reading these Paris reports, written exclusively for The Daily Record, you may have been feeling a twinge or two of envy for the glamor of a fashion career. Your envy will change to sympathy after you spend one full day, 'round-the-clock, with me here in Paris, where the Spring and Summer fashion openings of the French Couture are now in progress.

Instead of doling out cut-and-dried reports of the collections seen today suppose you actually come along with me on the day's rounds and see them for yourself.

We start with the alarm clock clanging off at 7 a.m., which would not be a hardship if we had not toiled at the typewriter until 3:30 a.m. and then taken a bath in a deep freeze unit, otherwise known as a bathroom. We dress in the warmest clothes we brought with us (oh, for a nice set of longies!), and, after making a few tedious phone calls, we take a taxi down to 130 Rue de Montmartre, where our printer is waiting for the day's batch of copy.

Every day he does our mimeographing and air-mailing. He's a kindly little Frenchman with a fuzz of hair circling a bald pate and merry eyes that winkle at us over his spectacles. He thinks we're a little mad and, for these ten days, he might be right.

Wearable, Colorful Tweeds

There's just time to make the 10:30 showing at Jean Patou, one of the oldest established Maisons in Couture in Paris, now headed by Raymond Barbas who is also the director of the entire Syndicat de la Couture and a most charming and suave gentleman. All the fashion writers are there to see what the new designer, Marc Bohan, has done.

They come in chattering from the penetrating cold and heavy lidded from the many hours they, too, have spent over their typewriters. If there is a gay night life in Paris, a fashion writer does not get to know much about it. Everybody settles down on a little gilt chair, ballpoint pen and notebook in hand, and the showing begins.

Mannish Topcoats

Patou's coats are loose and moderately full, with deep armholes and many sleeves gathered, shirt fashion, into cuffs. They are tailored in wonderful tweeds, velours and close cropped zibelines. When coatings are not tweedy this season, they are smooth. A few mannish topcoats are included, some in 7/8ths length; all with typical Chesterfield details, such as fly front and flap pockets. One is made of raincoat fabric.

Evening and cocktail coats include big swishy taffetas and one fitted faille redingote—these coupled with related dresses for the costume look the French insist upon. Much pale parchment, flecked with white, in tweeds and solid beige in smooth coatings.

Two Tweeds in One

We take special note of one tweed ensemble combining black and white tweed with a cognac color monotone tweed. The topcoat is reversible (could be the fabric, itself, is double woven); the suit combines a jacket of the black and white with a skirt of the cognac.

Light and buoyant colors combine with young styling to make the suits appealing and wearable. White flecked with pastel and beige tweeds are repeatedly used, some of them for dress and matching jacket costumes, others for three piece costumes with silk overblouses to match the jacket linings.

Skirts are generally slim, with the exception of a few pleated skirts and a few gored skirts that are interfaced to bell out, rather than to flare out. Lots of blue, some fresh yellow in suits—also spring pinks, with which pink kid opera pumps are always worn. Suit sleeves are bracelet length or shorter,—requiring long leather gloves.

Turquoise for Accent

Of all the blues (and this is one of the many "blue collections"), turquoise stands out as the preferred accent color. We see it in toy straw cloche hats, in bead jewelry. We cannot help noticing how effective those 60" ropes of colored beads are when twisted around the wrist with the shorter sleeves and matched with earrings. Cornflower blue appears in millinery and jewelry with black and navy. Greenish Duck Blue makes an impression in several costumes. Turquoise gets the head-to-foot treatment in a turquoise linen suit worn with matching millinery and accessories.

This is the most youthful collection seen at Patou for some time—especially where dresses are concerned. Full or slim, they accent the bustline and often whittle the waist by means of a pointed corselet seaming back and front. Full skirts are pleated or are shaped with interfacing for a modified "dome" spread. Much silk-and-worsted alpaca blend, many prints. Feather designs in silk prints look the newest. Many contrasting cummerbunds, many leather belts buckled in back.

Dramatic Colors

Evening fashions include rich guipure laces in coats and dresses, flower printed chiffons and taffetas and exciting color combinations in plain fabrics. Typical of Bohan's dramatic flair is a long evening gown combining an ivory satin skirt with a brown organdie top and a red faille waistband. An aqua organza gown is splashed with teal blue and bright red in girly and flowing draperies.

The collection is over around noontime, giving us just enough time to congratulate Marc Bohan and Mr. Barbas and taxi to my hotel, the St. Regis, for luncheon with Marjorie Dunton, a dynamic Canadian who used to be a couturier, herself, before the last war, and now does a government sponsored radio show in English that is broadcast throughout America. It's called "Bon Jour, Mesdames," so be sure to listen to it after this. Marjorie has just been appointed Publicity Attache for the Couture Syndicat, and we want to hear all about it over the lunch table.

Balmain Collection

There's barely time to rush over to Pierre Balmain for the 2:30 press opening. The long rooms are jammed, but we are led to good seats in the main salon. Your location at a showing is a pretty reliable indication of how you rate with each particular house. As the rooms crowd up, the atmosphere gets stuffier and hotter—but you've been freezing for so long you'd even enjoy the steam room in a Turkish Bath. Anyway, the

Five Deed Transfers Recorded

Five deeds were recorded at the office of Register and Recorder Floyd Butz yesterday.

On file were the following:

A lot and building in Ross Township on the public road leading from Stroudsburg through Meisell's Valley was sold by four Westfield, N. J. couples to Mr. and Mrs. John D. Phillip, 717 Linden St., Bethlehem.

Selling the property were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Palmer.

Another deed filed at the same time showed transfer of their interests in a separate Ross property by the three Palmer families to Mr. and Mrs. Tucker.

Sale of a Stroud Township lot by Howard Murray Abloff, 164 N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, to Fred L. Metzger Jr., 699 N. Courtland St., that borough, was recorded. The tract is located on the road between Stroudsburg and Anasomink.

Rosa Lesoine sold a Stroud Township lot to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lesoine. Both parties reside in Stroud. The lot is on the road from Anasomink to Bartonville.

Residential Investments Inc., a Stroudsburg corporation, sold a Norton Farms lot to Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Manzie, Stroudsburg.

Manzie is a contractor who has already erected one home on a lot in the Norton Farms site.
